A TRIBUTE TO OUR EXECUTIVE SECRETARY

If consistent loyalty to duties over such an extended length of time as twenty-five years is a measure of one's usefulness to an organization, then the Alumni Association of The Jefferson Medical College, owes an eradicable debt of gratitude to our Executive Secretary, Mrs. Melrose E. Weed.

If, added to that continuous service there has been throughout a high sense of pride in our institution and a warmth of identification with our purposes, then much of our success must be attributed to her.

Simple loyalty and the performance of duties and responsibilities that result from the single fact of occupying an administrative position are easy to attain and to be expected, but Mrs. Weed has evidenced always a zealous enthusiasm in all things Jeffersonian and shown it particularly in her personal, sympathetic interest in every Jefferson Alumnus everywhere in the world.

To Mrs. Weed we extend our thanks and congratulations on this twenty-fifth year of her service and can hope for her nothing less than the satisfaction that must come to one from knowledge of work well done with much still left to do, and a will to do it to the best of one's ability.

TO THE STUDENTS OF JEFFERSON

OUR MEDICAL COLLEGE WAS ESTABLISHED IN 1825 THROUGH THE VISION, INITIATIVE, AND GENEROSITY OF A SMALL GROUP OF PHYSICIANS. LOYAL ALUMNI AND FRIENDS HAVE SINCE CONTRIBUTED TO ITS SUPPORT AND TRADITIONS. THESE BENEFACTORS ASK NO RETURN SAVE THAT YOU MAKE THE MOST OF THE OPPORTUNITIES THEY HAVE HEALED TO PROVIDE, AND THAT YOU, AS FUTURE ALUMNI, CARRY ON THEIR FAITH IN YOU, IN MEDICINE, AND IN JEFFERSON.

THE ALUMNI OF JEFFERSON

ADOLPH A. WALKLING, M.D.
President of the Alumni Association

To the Alumni:

It is with sincere appreciation of the privilege and honor of serving as your president that I send you greetings. Each and every alumnus must be conscious of the fact that loyalty to our College and Alumni and faith in their future is necessary for advancement. This largest and most active of all medical alumni associations means a great deal to our College and our College means much to us. Your support in every possible way is essential to the Board of Trustees and the Faculty to carry us forward to greater heights. Jefferson is even now on the threshold of fulfillment.

As your president, I urge you, each one, to do everything possible to further Jefferson's interest so that this year of 1951 may be the most successful in her history. It is only by working together that we can accomplish for Jefferson those things which will bring about her expansion.

I am looking forward with great pleasure to seeing you during Commencement Week.

ADOLPH A. WALKLING, M.D.

At the Annual Meeting, held January 25, 1951, Adolph A. Walkling was elected President of the Jefferson Medical College Alumni Association.

Dr. Walkling has given a great deal of his time and interest to the many activities of the Alumni Association, and is well deserving of this highest honor the Alumni can pay him. We congratulate him and hope that his term of office will be a very successful one.

Adolph A. Walkling was born in Ottawa, Illinois. He was graduated from Jefferson in 1917 and served his internship at the Protestant Episcopal Hospital, Philadelphia, from 1917 to 1918.

He served as a First Lieutenant in the Medical Corps as Battalion Surgeon in the 309th Infantry of the 78th Division, from 1918 to 1919.

He was Resident in Pathology at the Protestant Episcopal Hospital from 1919 to 1920, completed his internship there from 1920 to 1921, and served as Resident in Surgery from 1921 to 1922.

THE JEFFERSON MEDICAL COLLEGE

Dr. Walking began his surgical career as Assistant in the Out-Patient Departments of Jefferson Hospital and Pennsylvania Hospital under Dr. John H. Gibbon, Sr., in 1922. He has taught Jefferson students at both hospitals continuously since that time, and has risen through the ranks from Assistant Demonstrator in Surgery to Associate Professor.

THE DEAN'S LUNCHEON

Alumni Day, June 14th, 1951

giving the Alumnus the opportunity to see the steady growth and progress of his Alma Mater and to visit the various departments during the afternoon. Luncheon will be served immediately after the Clinics in McClellan Hall on the second floor of the College.

To the Alumni:

You remember the observation of the little girl who said, "I think it's perfectly wonderful that God put dogs together so they can wag their tails." In much the same way, I never cease to admire the complex workings of a Medical Center like Jefferson, which must rely on so many people to do so many things cooperatively.

In my mind's eye I can see Jefferson's alumni, occupied with their daily tasks throughout the nation, but not too busy—thank Heaven—to remember occasionally that Jefferson is merely an extension of men's minds—your minds, and those who have gone before you. The buildings and activities that center here represent the thoughts and beliefs, the faith and the action of men—even as you and I.

I'd like you to know that the Trustees warmly appreciate the financial aid you have given. But don't get the idea that our sole concern is money.

Sound growth and optimum service are our real aims. It is only because these goals seem inseparably tied to funds that trustees must appear in the role of financiers.

Amidst today's alarms and doubts, some facts are certain. People will continue to be sick, disease will not be eradicated despite all our brilliant research; doctors and hospitals will be in greater demand. We plan calmly and surely in the knowledge that our work is not wasted.

Robert Millikan said the greatest thing a boy can learn in college is that "we have come from somewhere and we are going somewhere." That is exactly the way our Trustees feel about Jefferson. A noble and successful past spurs our planning, some of which you shall be the first to hear about as members of the Jefferson family.

For all of our Trustees, my warmest regards and good wishes.

Cordially yours,

Samuel E. Farver

Chairman of the Board of Trustees

To the Alumni:

Again it is my privilege to extend my most sincere greetings to the members of the Alumni Association of The Jefferson Medical College.

The past year has been a productive one. With the help of the Alumni, the pre-clinical departments have been further strengthened. The generous support of the Alumni has not only materially aided the college, but has provided an example for financial support from other sources.

We have hopes of securing a substantially increased appropriation from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the ensuing biennium. The Governor, in his biennial budget, recommended that Jefferson receive $1,245,000. approximately a 40% increase.

The Jefferson Committee, appearing before the Appropriations Committee, presented a most convincing case of the service of the College to the Commonwealth and its needs for the immediate future. Efforts are being continued to secure an amount near the requested figure, which would permit greater progress.

I know the Board is very proud of the members of the Alumni Association and the outstanding and brilliant work you are doing. We are certain we may count on your continued efforts to keep Jefferson in the forefront among medical colleges.

Members of the Alumni Association
The Jefferson Medical College
Philadelphia, Pa.

Dear Friends:

It is with great pleasure that I take this opportunity to greet you and to tell you how very much I appreciate the honor of being Dean of your famous Alma Mater. I have taken up my new duties with humility and hope. Humility in the honor shown me, and hope that through the privilege which the office gives me I shall work with you for a better and greater Jefferson.

I trust you will understand that I shall be happy at all times to meet with you and serve you in any way which may be helpful.

Knowing that Jefferson is very dear to your hearts, I shall do everything to further her interest and put forth every effort in aiding you to retain her pre-eminence in the medical world. Together we shall see that her prestige is never lost.

I can find no words to express my deep appreciation of your great loyalty to Jefferson and your immediate response to her needs. I know that you will continue to support me in doing everything that is beneficial to Jefferson.

I shall be looking forward to seeing many of you during Commencement Week.

With all good wishes for the continued success of your fine organization,
I am

Sincerely yours,

George Q. Bennett

DR. DAVID M. DAVIS, Nathan Lewis Hatfield Professor of Urology, and Head of the Department.

THE DEPARTMENT OF UROLOGY THE JEFFERSON MEDICAL COLLEGE AND HOSPITAL

The history of the Department of Urology at Jefferson, like that of most special departments, is comparatively brief. In the early days here, as elsewhere, the surgery of the urogenital organs was performed by general surgeons. Some surgeons took particular interest in this field, and of these Samuel Gross the elder was an outstanding example. Along with his many other interests, he published in 1851 a work on "Diseases and Injuries of the Urinary Bladder, the Prostate Gland, and the Urethra" which was the authority of its time, went through further editions in 1855 and 1876, and was well worthy of the genius of its author. Others soon found that this branch of surgery could occupy all of their time, so that a specialty was born. This development was recognized at Jefferson in 1894 when Orville Horwitz was appointed Clinical Professor of Genito-Urinary Diseases, but he still remained in the Department of Surgery. He developed his specialty to such good effect, however, that an independent Department of Genito-Urinary Diseases was established in 1905, with Dr. Horwitz at its head as full professor. Professor Horwitz resigned in 1912 (he died the following year) and was succeeded by Hiram R. Loux. Dr. Loux died while actively in service in 1930, and was in turn succeeded by Thomas C. Stellwagen. Upon Dr. Stellwagen's sudden death in 1935, David M. Davis, the present head of the department, was appointed. Shortly afterward the name of the department was officially changed to the Department of Urology, and in recognition of a bequest of funds for the use of the department, the professorship was named the Nathan Lewis Hatfield Professorship of Urology. It is hoped that these funds will prove very useful in the future. The period since 1935 represents an era of change in many particulars.

First, the system of teaching in the Medical School has been altered by the gradual reduction of didactic lectures, and the introduction of instruction in small groups and student participation by means of "clinical clerkships." The Department of Urology has kept pace enthusiastically in this development, with what are thought to be good results.

Second, advanced training in Urology has been established. The Department of Obstetrics under Dr. P. Brooke Bland set up the first Residencies at Jefferson about 1937. The Department of Urology was second, with the Residency begun in 1939. As a result of delays caused by World War II, a second Residency was not authorized until 1946, but the third was added in 1947. In 1948 through an arrangement with Professor John H. Gibbon, Jr., appointees are provided with a year of training in General Surgery before beginning their work in Urology. The training program, therefore, now comprises four years, one in Surgery and three spent progressing through the Second Assistant Residency, First Assistant Residency, and Residency in Urology. In this manner an extensive experience is acquired, and those finishing the Residency are thoroughly competent Urologists, and fully qualified for certification by the Board of Urology. In addition, this system provides the Hospital at all times with a competent Urology House Staff of three, in addition to internes, which is a real necessity for the maintenance of high standards of professional work. Internes profit from this arrangement, since members of the House Staff are always present to give competent advice and instruction.

Associate Professor of Urology

DR. WALTER W. BAKER
Assistant Professor of Urology

Third, through the appointment of a female head nurse on the Urology Ward (1938) and the introduction of modern nursing methods the quality of patient care throughout the Service has been immeasurably improved, and Jefferson can now offer to its students of nursing the best of instruction in Urologic Nursing. Tribute should be paid to Mrs. Nora Ziegler Smith, who was the pioneer nurse in the Urology Ward (1938-1941), to her successor Miss Jennie Kutz, and to Miss Arlean V. Miller, who have performed miracles in doing away with all the unpleasant features formerly associated with Urology wards. Visitors to the Ward today will find nothing to offend the most fastidious taste, and the increased comfort and well-being of the patients are evident.

Fourth, similar improvements have been brought about in the Out-patient Clinic through the appointment of a female nurse in charge. During World War II Mrs. Margaret Baldwin came to the clinic from retirement (1943) and continued her very efficient work there until February, 1951, when she again retired. Miss Katharyn Rhule succeeds her.

DR. HARRY BOGAEV
Associate in Urology and Chief of Urology Clinic

Fifth, the formation of the Special Treatment Clinic for syphilis as an interdepartmental activity, but under the immediate direction of the Department of Dermatology, resulted in the transfer of all cases of syphilis from the Urology Out-patient Clinic with benefit to everyone concerned. Dr. Joseph Aspel of the Urology Staff has been assigned to the Special Treatment Clinic since its inception.

Sixth, the advent of the antibiotic drugs, from sulfanilamide to penicillin, and the establishment of the Municipal Venereal Disease Clinics brought about slowly, but surely, a virtual disappearance of cases of gonorrhoea from the Out-patient Clinic. The thousands of cases of this disease formerly constituted by far the greater part of the work of the Clinic, while at present half a dozen cases a month is the average, and these are cured after not more than two or three visits each. As a result, the census of the Clinic has decreased markedly, as shown elsewhere in this report, but what remains represents an increased number of urological surgical cases.

DR. GEORGE H. STRONG
Assistant Professor of Urology

Seventh, the Urology Department has engaged in a cooperative effort with the Department of Gynecology and Obstetrics in the form of a Sterility Clinic, so that both sides of sterility problems can be thoroughly investigated. Dr. Edward Litt has been assigned to this work since its inception.

These changes along with certain technical improvements have brought about a real revolution in Urological work. The average number of bed-days per patient has fallen from 26.6 in 1940 to 17.5 in 1950. This represents an increase of about 50 per cent in the number of patients treated in the same number of beds. (There has been no increase in the number of Urology ward beds since 1935.) This perhaps illustrates the degree of the added demands laid on clinical medicine by the increase in population.

Another interesting development is the increase in the number of female patients coming to this department. Many of the advances of modern urology are equally applicable to both sexes. At present a considerably increased number of beds for female ward patients could easily be kept filled. The same is true of children's beds.

DR. DAVIS in the Urology Ward with Dr. J. Elder Bryan (Jefferson '45), Assistant Resident in Urology.

The waiting list for the ward service has reached as high as 79 and has not fallen below 12 in 5 years. Morbidity and mortality have fallen to new lows.

The Urology Staff of The Jefferson Medical College and Hospital is small in view of the clinical and instructional duties it has to perform. It should be noted, however, that four of its members are certified by the American Board of Urology, four of them have served as president of the Philadelphia Urological Society, and two have been president of the Mid-Atlantic Section of the American Urological Association. Few other departments of Urology have such a distinguished record.

The roster is as follows:

David M. Davis, Nathan Lewis Hatfield Professor of Urology
 Theodore R. Fetter, Associate Professor of Urology
 Walter W. Baker, Assistant Professor of Urology
 George H. Strong, Assistant Professor of Urology
 Harry Bogaev, Associate in Urology
 Stanley Q. West, Instructor in Urology
 James F. McCahey, Instructor in Urology
 Harold S. Rambo, Instructor in Urology
 Joseph Aspel, Instructor in Urology
 Edward T. Litt, Assistant in Urology
 Max Rosenzweig, Assistant in Urology
 Solomon Keesal, Assistant in Urology

David M. Davis, Nathan Lewis Hatfield Professor of Urology, was born in Buffalo, N. Y. in 1886 and was educated in the public schools and the Masten Park High School in Buffalo, at Princeton University (B.S. 1907) and at the Medical School of Johns Hopkins University (M.D. 1911), where he was elected a member of Phi Beta Kappa and of Alpha Omega Alpha. After a year of internship in Medicine at the Baltimore City Hospital, he became Assistant in Pathology at the Johns Hopkins Medical School for two years, (1913-14), and then Pathologist and Director of Research of the Brady Urological Institute at Johns Hopkins (1914-1917). In this period he was Associate Editor of the Journal of Urology at the time of its foundation (1917). In 1914 he spent the summer studying chemistry in Munich, Germany, and was there when World War I broke out. In 1915 he served three months as Bacteriologist to the Philadelphia Unit at the American Ambulance Hospital at Neuilly-sur-Seine (Paris), France. In 1916 he attended the Citizens Training Camp at Plattsburg, N. Y. In 1917 he was mustered into active service as First Lieutenant in the Medical Corps and was sent abroad immediately, where he served for two years, at first attached to the British Army (Fourth Division) and later with the American Expeditionary Force (32nd, 4th and 3rd Divisions), and rose to the rank of Major.

The north-west corner of the Urology Ward, Miss Kutz has provided a painting of the urinary tract, diagrams of drainage, decompression, and tidal drainage apparatus, and a board upon which are fastened the different types of catheters and drainage tubes, all for instructional purposes. In the cabinet and on the table are supplies needed in the ward. On the shelf of the table is an extensive and complete collection of sterile catheters wrapped in paper, from which urology patients in all parts of the hospital are supplied. On the right is the urological dressing carriage.

After a year spent in research work on the gonococcus at the Brady Institute, he turned to the clinical aspects of Urology and was appointed to the Residency in Urology at the Brady Institute, completing the Residency in 1922. He then spent two years preparing the manuscript of the "Practice of Urology," of which he is co-author with Hugh H. Young.

In 1924 he was appointed Assistant Professor of Urological Surgery and Head of Urology at the new Medical School of the University of Rochester, where he organized the department. In 1928 he resigned to return to Baltimore. From 1930 to 1935 he practiced in Phoenix, Arizona, and was Visiting Urologist to the Desert Sanitarium at Tucson, Arizona. In 1935 he was called to Jefferson.

He has served as President of the Southwestern Medical Association (1934-35), of the Mid-Atlantic Section of the American Urological Association (1941-42), and of the Philadelphia Urological Society (1943-45); as Treasurer of the College of Physicians of Philadelphia (1945-48); on the Executive Committee of the American Urological Association (1944-45); and as a member of the Editorial Board of the Journal of Urology (1945 to date). He is a member of the American Medical Association (Philadelphia County and Pennsylvania State), the American Urological Association (Mid-Atlantic Section), The American Association of Genito-Urinary Surgeons, the International Urological Society, the Halsted Club, the College of Physicians of Philadelphia, the Academy of Surgery of Philadelphia, the Philadelphia Urological Society and the Physiological Society of Philadelphia. He is Certified by the American Board of Urology.

Besides the Practice of Urology of Young and Davis, Dr. Davis has written a text-book on Urological Nursing, and has published 92 articles on professional subjects. At Jefferson he has designed a new cystoscopic-roentgenographic table. The patient rests on a traveling carriage, so that centering over the X-ray apparatus (including a fluoroscope) is easy. The original model of this table and a later improved model, set up in specially designed and equipped rooms, form the pyelographic unit in the Roentgenological Department of the Curtis Clinic. His particular interests have been Hypospadias, Hydronephrosis and Early Diagnosis of and Radical Operation for Carcinoma of the Prostate. New operations have been devised and published (Pedicule Tube-flap for Hypospadias, Intubated Ureterotomy for Hydronephrosis). The improvement in urological methods in recent years is illustrated by Dr. Davis' own series of personal cases of prostatic operations. In 741 operations since 1931 there have been 9 deaths, a mortality of 1.21 per cent. Of these, 390 have been operated upon since 1943 with no mortality whatever. These operations include transurethral resection, suprapubic prostatectomy, perineal prostatectomy, radical perineal prostato-seminal vesiculectomy, and one retropubic prostatectomy.

The "big room" in the Urology Clinic, where much of the practical instruction is given. Pull curtains provide privacy when needed.

Dr. Davis expects to retire from teaching this year, but will continue to practice Urology. The department, now well organized and efficient, should press on to new heights under younger leadership.

Dr. Theodore R. Fetter, Associate Professor of Urology, was born in 1903 at Schaefferstown, Pa., and graduated in Medicine from The Jefferson Medical College in 1926. Deeply interested in Urology from the beginning, he has been connected with the Department ever since finishing his internship. He is at present Consulting Urologist at the Wills Eye Hospital, Philadelphia, and at the Grandview Hospital, Sellersville, Pa., and Attending Urologist at the Delaware County Hospital. He is a member of the American Medical Association, the American Urological Association, the Middle Atlantic Section of the American Urological Association, the American College of Surgeons, the Philadelphia Urological Society and the College of Physicians of Philadelphia. He is Certified by the American Board of Urology. He has served as President of the Philadelphia Urological Society, of the Middle Atlantic Section of the American Urological Association, of the Philadelphia County Medical Society, and of the Jefferson Alumni Association.

Dr. Walter W. Baker, Assistant Professor of Urology, was born in 1902 at Enid, Oklahoma and graduated in Medicine from the Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis, Mo. in 1928. He was Assistant Resident in Surgery and Resident in Urology at the Duke Hospital of Duke University at Durham, N. C., and Resident in Urology at the Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, Md. He has been a member of the Department since Cystoscopic-roentgenographic-fluoroscopic table designed by DR. DAVID M. DAVIS and constructed in Philadelphia by the Franklin X-Ray Corporation. The patient rests on a movable carriage, which is moved back over the x-ray apparatus after the ureteral catheters are in place. All movements of the table are made by hydraulic motors.

1936. He is Urologist-in-Chief at the Methodist Hospital, Philadelphia. He is Certified by the American Board of Urology. He is a member of the American Medical Association, the Middle Atlantic Section of the American Urological Association, the Philadelphia Urological Society, and the College of Physicians of Philadelphia. He has served as President of the Philadelphia Urological Society.

Dr. George H. Strong, Assistant Professor of Urology, was born in Baltimore, Maryland in 1914, and graduated in Medicine from the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine in Baltimore in 1939. He was Resident in Urology at Mercy Hospital, Pittsburgh, Pa., at the University of Virginia Hospital, Charlottesville, Va., at the Ancker Hospital, St. Paul, Minnesota, and at the Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, Md. He has been a member of the Department since 1946. He is Associate Urologist at the Episcopal Hospital, Philadelphia, and Consulting Urologist at the Valley

Forge General Hospital (U. S. Army) at Phoenixville, Pa. He is Certified by the American Board of Urology. He is a member of the American Medical Association, the American Urological Association, the Middle Atlantic Section of the American Urological Association, and the American College of Surgeons.

Dr. Harry A. Bogaev, Associate in Urology and Chief of Clinic (Chief Clinical Assistant) in the Urology Out-patient Clinic, was born in Kiev, Russia in 1892, and graduated in Medicine from the School of Medicine of the University of Pennsylvania in 1919. He has been a member of the Department since 1923. He is a member of the American Medical Association, the Middle Atlantic Section of the American Urological Association, and the Philadelphia Urological Society.

The Residency in Urology was authorized in 1939, and Dr. John W. Houser was the first incumbent. He withdrew after one year on account of ill health, but later completed his training elsewhere, and is now practicing in Cincinnati, Ohio, where he is on the staff of the University of Cincinnati. His successor, Dr. Frank Naegeli, is now, after a long and very active war service in the Army, Urologist to the Minot Clinic, Minot, South Dakota. Dr. Balcom Moore was the first to complete a full three years of training at Jefferson, and is now practicing at Walla Walla, Washington. After him came Dr. Emanuel Lubin, now practicing in Tulsa, Oklahoma; Dr. Burton Smith, now practicing in Beverly Hills, California; and Dr. Willard M. Drake, Jr., now practicing in Camden, New Jersey, and a member of the teaching staff at Jefferson.

The present house staff is as follows: Resident in Urology, Dr. Joseph Wilkerson; First Assistant Resident in Urology, Dr. Donald Monroe; Second Assistant Resident in Urology, Dr. J. Elder Bryan; and Assistant Resident in Surgery (preliminary to the Residency in Urology) Dr. Robert Johnson.

The Resident Staff renders invaluable services to the hospital. Its members provide competent attention whenever needed, day or night, to both ward and private patients. They run the follow-up clinic, assume much of the responsibility of the daily out-patient clinic, and assist most effectively in the teaching, both on the wards and in the clinic. A really high-class Urological Service cannot be operated without a competent Resident Staff. In addition, this thorough training system provides the teachers of Urology for the future, both here and elsewhere.

THE STUDENT AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

On February 12, 1951, a chapter of the Student American Medical Association was created at Jefferson when representatives of 237 student members formally ratified the Student A.M.A. constitution. Jefferson is one of 40 medical schools throughout the nation whose students have organized similar member societies as affiliates of the Student A.M.A.

Medical students and internes alone are eligible for membership in the organization, which has as its primary aim the helping of the student to solve some of the problems which arise concerning his medical education, internship, specialty training, and early years of practice.

The student society participates in the government of the national Student A.M.A. through the mediation of an annual delegate to the House of Delegates of the Student A.M.A. Liaison with the county and state medical societies and with the school faculty is maintained by means of an advisory committee, consisting of a member from the County and State medical societies, the Dean or his representative, and two faculty advisors. The current advisory committee includes Dr. George A. Bennett, Dr. William H. Perkins, Dr. Paul Swenson, Dr. Gilson C. Engel, and Dr. John T. Farrell.

The organization has received the enthusiastic support of many of the faculty and alumni, and there is little doubt that this attitude has smoothed out many of the rough spots in the path of a newly-formed society.

Diamond Badge—A Gift from the Philadelphia Fire Department

COLLEGE IS BEQUEATHED DR. DACOSTA'S DIAMOND BADGE

Dr. DaCosta's father and grandfather both ran with the volunteer fire department when they lived on Dock Street in Philadelphia. At that time Dock Street was country. During his boyhood, he often went with his father to the fires and entered into the competition of the brawls between the various fire departments in the vicinity of his home. As a young man, during his leisure hours at night, he used to read poetry to the firemen in the stations at 21st and Market Streets, and 16th and Sansom Streets. It was not unusual to see him surrounded by firemen listening to his reading of these poems, especially those of his favorite, Robert Burns.

Because of his interest, he was made Surgeon to the Firemen's Pension Fund, which entitled him to wear a badge and attend fires. This he did in conjunction with his intimate friend, Chief Baxter, riding on the fire apparatus drawn by horses. Following the death of Chief Baxter, another of his friends,

Presentation of Gold Medal from the Department of Fire and Police—1931

Deputy Chief Waters, was made Chief Engineer. For many years the latter and Dr. DaCosta rode to all the two-alarm fires throughout the Philadelphia area. He never lost his interest, and his professional attention to firemen, day or night, equalled that given to his private patients.

During his last illness, which extended over a period of ten years, the Fire Insurance Patrol No. 3, also on Market Street between 21st and 22nd, assigned two men to visit him daily at his home at 2045 Walnut Street, with the purpose of lifting him from his bed and helping him to bathe. Likewise, Waters, now in retirement, visited him once each week and discussed all of the big fires as well as the policy and politics of the Fire Department. Also a weekly visitor on a different day was Dr. DaCosta's old friend, Battalion Chief Sam Cook. These two men and many other officials of the fire bureau amply repaid Dr. DaCosta for all the services he had rendered by their constant visits, by the relaxation they afforded, and through their reminiscences of the past as well as discussions of the present and future of the fire department.

The diamond badge, which was a contribution from the Philadelphia Fire Department was worn by Dr. DaCosta day and night. It was stolen from him at 12th and Market Streets by a pick-pocket, and for many years it was lost. It eventually turned up in a pawn shop in the region of 10th Street below the Hospital and was redeemed by a Greek grocer at 10th and Locust Streets who had been a patient of his. Dr. DaCosta's pleasure in receiving the badge after fifteen years knew no bounds.

Even in his crippled state, his interest in the fire department continued. This was given formal recognition by the Director of Public Safety, Lemuel Schofield, who presented Dr. DaCosta in his clinic in The Jefferson Medical College amphitheater a badge signifying that he was being made an honorary Battalion Chief of the Philadelphia Fire Department, an honor and distinction not held prior to or since by anyone.

During all these years, Dr. DaCosta had a fire alarm in his home which registered all of the fires as they came through the electrical bureau. In the last years of his crippled state, this apparatus was a source of pleasure and relaxation to him. He kept account of all the fires which came over the box and followed these through to headquarters where many of his friends that he had known as youngsters were now in power.

Fire, inherited from his ancestors, was in Dr. DaCosta's blood during his active life and in his declining years. It never waned.

Mrs. Thomas B. K. Ringe, one of Mrs. DaCosta's three nieces, who was recently elected President of the Women's Board of the Hospital, will participate in a ceremony at which the Badge will be accepted for the institution by Dr. Thomas A. Shallow, successor to Dr. DaCosta as the Samuel D. Gross Professor of Surgery.

DR. EDWARD L. BAUER, '14, HONORED BY HIS DEPARTMENT

Members of the Department of Pediatrics and their wives held a dinner on April 2, 1951, at the Warwick in honor of Dr. Bauer in celebration of his twenty-five years as Professor of Pediatrics and Head of the Department of Pediatrics in The Jefferson Medical College. The event was most enjoyable and long to be remembered by Dr. Bauer.

JEFFERSON ALUMNI HONOR

VICE-ADMIRAL JAMES L. KAUFFMAN, U.S.N. (RET.)

Thirty Jefferson alumni from Wilkes-Barre and the surrounding country entertained as their guest Vice-Admiral James L. Kauffman, U.S.N. (Ret.), President of The Jefferson Medical College and Hospital, at the 67th Annual Dinner of the Wyoming Valley Chamber of Commerce in honor of Governor John S. Fine, April 17, 1951.

CAPTAIN BURGESS A. SMITH, '49

Captain Burgess A. Smith, Strausstown, Pa., was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for his part in the rescue of a number of wounded men and encircled American soldiers behind the enemy lines in Korea.

He volunteered to fly in a helicopter behind the enemy lines to get some wounded men. They landed not knowing that the unit was completely surrounded by enemy troops, and were under fire from the time of landing.

After having gotten to the battalion command post and finding the wounded men, they returned to their plane to find that the battery was dead. An attempt to fix the battery was unsuccessful and they were forced to remain under fire through the night.

While treating the wounded men, enemy shrapnel hit Captain Smith's head, but the steel helmet he was wearing saved him from serious injury.

The rescue group remained in fox holes all night while the enemy continued to fire on them. In the morning, by hand signals, word was gotten to other planes in the vicinity, and two additional helicopters landed at their position, bringing along a new battery for the crippled plane. This attempt to evacuate the wounded was successful.

In presenting the DFC to Captain Smith, Major Raymond W. Bliss, commanding general of all medical personnel in Korea, said: "I am especially proud to present this award to you because you are one of us. It is not often that a member of the medical corps receives this high award."

Captain Smith has also been recommended for the Silver Star. He is with the 8076th Army Mobile Surgical Hospital.

Dr. Adolph A. Walkling, President of The Jefferson Medical College Alumni Association sent greetings to the Ohio group.

Dr. David B. Allman has planned a Buffet Supper and Smoker for the Jefferson alumni attending the A.M.A. Meeting in Atlantic City, on June 13, 1951, in the American Room, Hotel Traymore, at 7:00 p.m.

This celebration will be held in conjunction with the 101st Annual Session of the Pennsylvania State Medical Society which is being held in Pittsburgh, September 16th to the 20th, 1951.

LIBRARY

Alumni will be interested to know that new fluorescent lamps designed to give adequate reading light over the entire table surface have been installed on the posts of the old table lamps. New non-glaring, white incandescent bulbs have been used in the ceiling fixtures and fluorescent lights installed over the book-cases to replace worn fixtures and to give softer and more adequate lighting of the book-shelves. A special fluorescent cove fixture has been fitted into one of the overhead beams to light the charging desk and librarian's office. By adapting the newer lighting techniques to the particular architecture of the room, a pleasing and efficient lighting arrangement has been achieved.

Beside the physical changes in the reading room, advances in other aspects of the library program have also been made. With better reading conditions and a college schedule which allows more time during the day for reading, the daily attendance in the library has progressively increased, as has also the evening attendance. The library is open every weekday evening and Saturday afternoons. Further evidence of the use of the library is the constant increase in the circulation of material for overnight use

Instruction in the use of medical literature and the library has been increased from one hour to three hours. During this time students are acquainted with the various types of medical literature, the library arrangement, and the use of various indexes to medical journals. Each student is given worksheets to give him an opportunity to use some of the medical directories and journals. A LIBRARY GUIDE has been prepared to assist the students.

Special exhibits in the library emphasized several events of interest. The exhibit of manuscripts and early publications of George McClellan and the other members of the first faculty, in connection with the 125th anniversary, was the most extensive exhibit held. To mark the publication of the biographies of two outstanding Jeffersonians, Silas Weir Mitchell and James Marion Sims, special publications, pictures and mementos were displayed. Various bibliographic sources have been shown in connection with the course of instruction to the freshmen students. There is a current exhibit of rare books from the P. Brooke Bland Collection to illustrate medical incunabula and early medical books.

New books are constantly being added through purchase and gifts from the following publishers who yearly donate a copy of each of their new books: Appleton-Century-Crofts, Inc., The Blakiston Company, J. B. Lippincott Company and the W. B. Saunders Company. Other new books are received from individuals and medical organizations. Prof. J. Earl Thomas presented to the library a copy of his new book, The External Secretion of the Pancreas. Of special interest is a copy of Dr. Jo Ono's '28 Japanese translation of Bronchoscopy, Esophagoscopy and Gastrosocopy, by Dr. Chevalier Jackson, '86.

During the past year gifts of older material have included the library of the late Dr. Horace J. Williams, '12. The outstanding rare book received this year is a copy of Deutsche Speiskammer, by Hieronymous Bock, Strassburg, 1550. This book, which is the only copy we have been able to locate in Philadelphia or at the Library of Congress, was presented by Col. Frederick H. Mills, M.C., '94.

Alumni are constantly donating material. Their journals supplement our regular holdings, their books are very useful, and their reprints are added to our collection of the publications of the Alumni and the Staff of the College.

The library staff at all times appreciates the interest of the alumni who contribute so liberally to the well-being of the library. Their donations and suggestions are always welcome.

ROBERT T. LENTZ, Librarian

January 25, 1951

More than a year ago the College Endowment Committee was authorized by the Alumni Executive Committee to make a study and report on the resolutions applying to the Alumni Funds.

The following resolution submitted by the College Endowment Committee was approved by the Executive Committee, voted upon by the Association, and officially adopted at the Annual Meeting, January 25, 1951.

This resolution was subsequently approved and accepted by the Board of Trustees on April 16, 1951.

"RESOLVED: To recommend to the Board of Trustees—

That the Alumni Fund continue to receive payments made under the Note Plan; that the Alumni Fund be reconstituted to embrace three Funds:

(1) BUILDING FUND, to receive 50% of the present balance of $146,155.65 in the Alumni Endowment Fund; to receive 50% of future payments under the Note Plan; to be available to the Board of Trustees for building needs;

(2) TEACHING FUND, to receive the total assets of the "Permanent Endowment Fund" now approximately $85,077.33; to receive 25% of the present balance of $146,155.65 in the Alumni Endowment Fund; to receive 25% of future payments under the Note Plan; the income of this Fund is to be available to the Board of Trustees for applying to the payments of salaries of full-time laboratory teachers and research workers, preference being given to graduates of Jefferson;

(3) DISCRETIONARY FUND, to receive the remaining 25% of the present balance of $146,155.65 in the Alumni Endowment Fund; to receive 25% of future payments under the Note Plan; to be allotted annually to the Board of Trustees for use at their discretion in either the Building Fund or Teaching Fund.

RESOLVED FURTHER: To recommend the closing out of the accounts "Alumni Endowment Fund" and "Permanent Fund" in favor of the foregoing three new Funds.

By prior action of the Executive Committee, concurred in by the Board of Trustees, the signing of present and future classes to the "Note Plan" has been discontinued in favor of the Alumni Annual Giving Fund. The Alumni Annual Giving Fund will continue to raise funds, through the classes, will accept and transfer "Note Plan" payments to the Alumni Fund, and will turn over expendable funds annually to the Board of Trustees with recommendations as to their use.

There would thus exist the Alumni Fund with its three subdivisions—and the Alumni Annual Giving Fund. The former would represent capital funds; the latter, current expendable funds and a fund-raising organization.

ALUMNI ANNUAL GIVING

LOUIS H. CLERF, M.D., Chairman

The Third Alumni Annual Giving Drive will end at the Alumni Dinner on June 14th. The goal of a 10% increase over the total of last year has not been met and we are trailing last year at this point. The Class Agents have worked hard but there still remain a large number of Alumni who have not responded.

At this point 2,575 donors, or 42%, have contributed $92,139 to this year's Fund. At the same time last year $100,129 had been given by 2,853 donors. Final totals last year were 3,271 donors, or 55.2% of graduates giving $115,370.

We have felt that a larger than usual number of class members this year were deferring giving until late in the drive. We certainly hope that this is the case and that those who, for many reasons, have been holding off will now join in bringing us up to the levels of the last two years.

The needs of Jefferson are still as great as when Alumni Giving was first inaugurated. They must be met if we are to carry on and maintain our reputation as a teaching institution. The needs are particularly urgent in the preclinical departments and these need your help.

If you have not contributed to the Third Alumni Giving Drive, get in touch with your Class Agent immediately and give. Don't let him down and don't forget your Alma Mater.

THE EMERSON R. SAUSSER MEDICAL-DENTAL CLINIC

The Emerson R. Sausser Medical-Dental Clinic, installed on the 9th floor of the Curtis Clinic of the Jefferson Hospital, was established by the Samuel H. Kress Foundation of New York in honor of Emerson R. Sausser, D.D.S., Chief of the Dental Department of the Hospital

The clinic, which was dedicated on September 18, 1950, directs its efforts at school and pre-school children who are not able to pay for private dental care and yet are not eligible for charity clinics. A substantial segment of patients come from public and parochial schools, child-caring institutions, and through the cooperation of civic and health groups.

The clinic is functioning for a broad educational program to provide a much closer and intimate cooperation between physicians and dentists through lectures, referrals, consultations and treatment planning. In giving an opportunity to learn more fully the relations of oral diseases with systemic disturbances, both physicians and dentists will benefit, with the patient's welfare paramount.

The program contemplates establishing a Department of Dental Medicine in The Jefferson Medical College with the appropriate curriculum. Medical students of Jefferson will thus have a part of their work, in the pre-clinical and clinical years, devoted to oral medicine with some training and teaching in the dental clinic.

The clinic is equipped with complete photographic facilities for the recording of cases of educational value, with laboratories for the prosecution of individual research and all modern conveniences for the conduct of extensive clinical service in the several phases of minor surgery of the mouth, operative dentistry, root canal therapy, prosthodontia, orthodontia, x-ray diagnosis, oral hygiene and oral disease.

Under the directorship of Dr. Thomas P. Fox, and the gracious cooperation of Dean George A. Bennett, the following eleven lectures in Dental Medicine have been given to the senior class of The Jefferson Medical College:

Orientation of Medical-Dental Courses

Emerson R. Sausser, D.D.S., F.A.C.D., Chief of Dental Department,
Jefferson Hospital

Cleft Palate Prosthesis

Herbert K. Cooper, D.D.S., Sc.D., Professor of Cleft Palate Prosthesis

Oral Bacteriology

Joseph L. T. Appleton, B.S., D.D.S., Sc.D., Professor of Bacterio-
Pathology, Dean of School of Dentistry

Oral Medicine—Oral Aspect of Nutritional Diseases—Leukoplakia Lichen-planus

Lester W. Burket, A.B., D.D.S., M.D., Professor of Oral Medicine, Director of Post-Graduate courses

Fluoridation of Water—Topical Application of 2% Solution Sodium Fluoride
Gerald E. Timmons, D.D.S., F.A.C.D., Dean, Temple University Dental School

Relationship Between Medicine-Dentistry

Rear Admiral Lamont H. Pugh, Surgeon General of U. S. Navy

Public Health Dentistry—Focal Infection

Bruce D. Forsyth, D.D.S., Assistant Surgeon General, Chief Dental Officer, U. S. Public Health Service

Oral Cancer

Joseph L. Bernier, D.D.S., M.D., Colonel, Dental Corps, U.S.A.; Curator, Dental Division; Army Medical Museum, Washington, D. C.

Rear Admiral Lamont Pugh, Surgeon General of the Navy, recently stated:

"If dentistry has become virtually a branch of medicine, it is because, whether wittingly or unwittingly, whether intentionally or unintentionally, dentistry has deliberately and forthrightly made it so. All of which I think is to the distinct credit of dentistry.

"From a sphere of activity more or less limited to the technical procedure of extracting or filling teeth, dentistry has broadened its scope to where it virtually matches medicine in its training requirements and requirements for license all along the line.

R. F. A. COLELLA, D.D.S., Clinic Director

SUPPORT HOUSE BILL No. 1084

House Bill No. 1084, pending the Pennsylvania Legislature, provides for the useful disposition of unclaimed dogs and cats impounded by public authority in the State. Stated institutions, including Jefferson, would have made available to them such unredeemed animals for scientific investigation, experimentation and instruction. Such needs are readily understood, and the importance of this measure can not be overestimated.

All Jefferson Alumni, who are residents of Pennsylvania, can make their wishes known by writing to their representatives. It is well-known that antivivisectionists are flooding the legislature with protests. Such misguided, but well-intentioned objections are well-known to all physicians. They can only be overcome by your overwhelming support of this Bill. Your County Medical Society can supply you with the names and addresses of your legislators.

JEFFERSON ALUMNI IN THE ARMED SERVICES

We know this is not a complete list of our men in the services. If your name has been omitted, please send it to us with your latest rank and service address, or, if there is an error in your listing, please advise us so that we can correct it.

DR. GEORGE GEMMILL, '26, GIVES MESSAGE

The President's message to the York County Medical Society by Dr. George Gemmill has received wide publicity in the lay press. His timely message to his fellow society members called upon them for a deeper consecration to serve mankind and make an honest effort to regain some of the high esteem and respect which our profession has lost in the past decade. He also made a plea for increased tolerance and less professional jealousy among the members of our profession.
